

FIFA 22 introduces “HyperMotion Technology,” which uses motion capture data collected from 22 real-life players playing a complete, high-intensity football match in motion capture suits. The data collected from player movements, tackles, aerial duels and on-ball actions is used to power FIFA 22 gameplay. From the motion capture suits, to the on-pitch motion data that is fed into the game engine and harnessed in FIFA 22, technology has never been more important to the experience of the game. We’re excited to share more about this exciting new feature as we roll into E3. Now we can tell you about the FIFA 22 cover athlete, the new referees and insights from the development teams. Meet Neymar Jr. Mr. Neymar Sr. looks on as his son travels to other countries while playing for Barcelona. As a youngster, Neymar Jr. played and watched a lot of games, which gave him a keen footballing eye. Aged 15, the young Neymar Jr. joined the youth set-up at Santos Football Club and went on to progress into the senior squad. Neymar Jr. is known in football as a combination of talent and speed. Neymar Jr. is already a world-class player, and the addition of the FIFA 22 cover athlete has strengthened his all-round abilities. Meet Gianluigi Buffon The UEFA Champions League Finals MVP is, simply put, one of the best goalkeepers in the world. For years, Buffon has stood in front of Lucio and the ball, providing his side with much-needed stability and calm authority. His legendary performances have helped Juventus become not only the most successful Italian team, but also the most successful Serie A team. Meet Fernando Torres While Torres retired from the field after playing for Atlético Madrid, he continues to help guide younger generations to be the best they can be. Torres was named as a member of Spain’s 2018 FIFA World Cup Russia™ provisional squad last year, and will continue to work with the Spanish National Football Team as a coach. FIFA™ 22 is set to be an explosive football game, and the FIFA 22 game engine is set to keep gamers on their toes. It now features a precision-tuned passing mechanic and fantastic ball physics. Players can rely on their footballing smarts to work their way through, around and past any situation. In FIFA
