Keep track of your work online, create documents, lists, and more. Keep track of notes, files, tasks, web snippets, and more. Introducing one of the most user-friendly and powerful note-taking applications available on the market. Don't struggle to manage your notes on the computer. Just import them into your notes as easily as you can from a Word document, PDF file, or web page. Most of you will have at least one website that you keep an eye on. And there's nothing wrong with that, except that it's really hard to stay organized and find your favorite sites in your huge file of bookmarks. That's where Websplit comes in. This addon to Firefox takes your bookmarks and stores them in one single document that can easily be edited, sorted, and searched using Firefox's built-in search tools. WebSplitter is a Firefox addon that creates a single document file from all your existing bookmarks and stores it in a single file that you can easily sort and view. The Websplit Document Format consists of two parts: A) a header, which contains the URL of the web page where you first started to bookmark the page; B) a list of all bookmarks organized in folders. The Websplit Document format also allows you to see which folders your bookmarks are stored in, and if they are already open in a separate window. To add a web page as a bookmark in Websplit, first select the page in the browser window, then right-click on the page to bring up the context menu. Select the "Save As Bookmark" option. If you would like to create a folder of bookmarks from all your existing bookmarks, select the "New Folder" option from the same context menu. Browser-Extensions -Browser Extension, Addons & Extension - Browser Extensions Use the Chrome Developer Tools. A set of tools that allows you to find out the details about the web pages you are visiting and it lets you perform operations on the page to find out more about the web page. The tools include a JavaScript console, a network panel, a timeline and several other tools for debugging and analyzing the web pages. You can also view the source of the web page. The developer tools are available in most browsers. The Chrome Developer Tools are one of the most useful tools available, but they are available for Chrome, Firefox, Safari,

KEYMACRO is a small and powerful freeware that allows you to automate simple tasks on the keyboard. It's a useful utility for keyboard junkies who need to create macros that can perform more complex tasks. It's a neat little program that's very easy to use. You can create a macro with the help of its wizard and then insert it by using some easy to remember shortcuts. For example, you can select a text area, press a key on your keyboard and that's it. You can also use modifiers keys to configure your macros. You can also record actions on the keyboard in a macro and you can configure shortcuts for those. Keymacro supports mouse, Win-Key and Shift+Alt+Key shortcut actions. You can enable/disable macros for each of the shortcut key combinations, so you don't have to use a mouse at all. You can also make hotkeys as shortcuts for your macros. You can enable/disable notifications for each of the shortcuts and show/hide a floating window, when you press a shortcut key. You can also configure your macros to run immediately or after some delay, and you can enable or disable them for each of the shortcut key combinations. You can also create custom scripts for keyboard shortcuts. For example, you can run a macro if your computer is asleep. To do that, you just create a new script with the 'New Macro' option, configure it and then assign it to a key combination. The one you assign to the Sleep key can trigger the macro and it will check if your computer is asleep. If it is, it will run the macro and if it is not, it will not trigger the macro. The New Script option allows you to create a new script that will be triggered by pressing one or more key combinations. It also allows you to configure actions and to execute the script on each of the pressed keys. Create macros and define custom hotkeys You can create a lot of custom hotkeys to create macros with the 'New Macro' button. You can configure a macro to run on a single key press, on double press, on a triple press and on a single press of more than 3 keys. It will run immediately after the press, after a delay or after some delay. It can also run a macro or execute a script. You can create a new hotkey and set it to run a macro or to perform some other task. This can be useful to make some quick adjustments with your computer. For example, you can 81e310abff
