Studio Professional 2015 is only $119. But if you plan to have TFS build your code, it will cost you $224 to buy the TFS 2015 license. But the best part is that if you want to use only the TFS build task, you can use the Visual Studio Community 2015 which costs you nothing. How does it work? You need

Visual Studio 2015
Community Edition installed on both your build machine and your source code machine.
These builds are for single projects. You can build multiple projects by running multiple build tasks in Task Manager.
You can edit the source code and build the project from your build machine. Now, you can use the TFS build task just as you are using the default Visual Studio build task. When you have Visual Studio Community installed on your build machine, you don't need the full TFS build tools installed. You can use this TFS build task in TFS 2015 for Windows. Therefore, you are free to use this TFS build task without any restrictions. Now, the build process won't be stuck. Use the build task to compile your code and you can skip the slow build process that you get using the default build task. How to use the TFS build task in TFS 2015 for Windows During the installation of Visual Studio 2015, you should have the Visual Studio installed as well. If you have Visual Studio Community installed on your source code machine, it should have the required TFS build tools installed. Visual Studio Community includes only the TFS build tools. It doesn't include the other build tools. The other build tools, such as Microsoft Azure Web App, App Center, Modeling Services, Test Driven Development, etc. are part of TFS 2015 and you need to install it yourself. If you have installed TFS 2015 on your build machine, you need to use TFS Build 2015 Task to edit your
